It's Your Life On The Line

Crash Responder Safety Week (CRSW), formerly known as NTIRAW, is a chance for all traffic incident response communities to make a difference individually and jointly. Teach your community and the motoring public about our shared responsibility for safe roadway incident clearance – whether a crash, stalled vehicle, debris on road, or something else.

Become a CRSW Champion

Collaborate with your leadership, public information officers, and fellow responders to amplify the visibility and message of this important week. Use the CRSW calendar and tools to align messaging with others across our nation: bitly.com/CRSW2021

National, State, and local emergency medical services, fire and rescue, law enforcement, public works, towing and recovery, and transportation agencies and associations have marked this week with:

- Local television or newspaper stories
- Social media outreach
- Governor's proclamations
- Virtual or in-person training events
- Messages on highway signs
- Events honoring fallen responders
- Videos, posters, and flyers promoting Move Over laws at Department of Motor Vehicle offices and traveler rest stops

Play Your Part

Whether or not your organization participates, you can be a CRSW champion. Take the free National Traffic Incident Management Responder Training, and encourage your fellow responders to do the same. It may save your life. Visit: bitly.com/TIMtrain
